2020 IGLP SCHOLARS WORKSHOP: June 7 - 11, 2020 | Bangkok, Thailand

January 29, 2020

The Institute for Global Law and Policy (IGLP) at Harvard Law School is pleased to announce our 2020 IGLP Scholars Workshop in Bangkok, Thailand. Organized in collaboration with the Thailand Institute of Justice, the Workshop aims to promote innovative ideas and alternative approaches to global law, economic policy, and social justice by strengthening a rising generation of scholars and university teachers from across the world. We focus on the important legal and political choices embedded in policy debate on issues facing Asia and the world.

The Workshop is open to junior faculty, post-doctoral and doctoral scholars with new ideas, critical insight and an appetite for intense peer-to-peer mentoring and cross-training with guidance from senior faculty from the world's leading universities. Participation is encouraged from scholars worldwide who would benefit from collaboration with colleagues from across Asia.

Application deadline: February 7, 2020

More information on the Workshop and Application process can be found here.
