Reform and Entrenchment in International Investment Law Webinar

By:

Afronomicslaw

International investment law is going to change. But is the ongoing reform capable of solving systemic problems? Does the reform agenda reflect the criticism voiced by civil society and developing countries? If delegates and experts only tinker with the system at the margins without fundamentally altering it, a reformed investment protection regime might carry forward the undesirable legacy of the past.

Read more about Prof. Gathii's talk via this link.

View online: Reform and Entrenchment in International Investment Law Webinar

Provided by Afronomicslaw