Roundtable Webinar Invitation: Trade and Distribution

By:

Afronomicslaw

April 11, 2022

Title: Trade and Distribution

Date: April 20, 2022

Time: 12pm EST.

Zoom Registration Required Here

This roundtable will ask what insights or productive questions can be advanced to make sense of the changing ground in international economic law, and whether these ongoing shifts can be leveraged towards progressive and equitable distributive outcomes. Our areas of inquiry include: the US and domestic trade policy; developing countries' concerns vis-à-vis global distribution; distributional consequences within developing countries; and effects of race and gender.

Confirmed Participants

Olabisi D. Akinkugbe, Dalhousie University

Desiree LeClerq, Cornell University

Gregory Shaffer, University of California, Irvine

Mark Wu, Harvard University.

Kelly Fay Rodriguez, House Ways and Means Committee, Trade Subcommittee

Lori Wallach, Rethink Trade

Antonia Eliason, University of Mississippi

Daniel Rangel, Rethink Trade

Alexandra Whittaker, House Ways and Means Committee, Trade Subcommittee

Chair

David Trubek, University of Wisconsin

Commentators

Àlvaro Santos, Georgetown University

Chantal Thomas, Cornell University

Co-hosted by Jurisprudence of Distribution (JOD), the Center for the Advancement of the Rule of Law in the Americas (CAROLA-Georgetown), and the Center for Global Economic Justice (CGEJ-Cornell).

View online: Roundtable Webinar Invitation: Trade and Distribution

Provided by Afronomicslaw