

Call for Applications: Afronomicslaw Masterclass on Climate Finance, the Green Transition, and Sovereign Debt - Accra, Ghana

TRAINING DATES: 28th to 29th OF JULY, 2025

Location: Accra, Ghana- University of Professional Studies, Accra (UPSA)

Join a Transformative Training at the Intersection of Climate Justice, Economic Sovereignty, and Global Governance.

Afronomicslaw invites applications for an in-person Masterclass on climate finance and economic justice training taking place in Accra, Ghana. This high-level, interdisciplinary program will bring changemakers from across Africa together to unpack the urgent challenges of climate finance, debt, and economic justice facing the continent.

From unjust debt burdens to unequal climate financing frameworks, African countries are navigating a double emergency. This training will equip participants with the knowledge, tools, and networks to meaningfully engage in these global economic justice conversations – and to drive change at local, national, regional, and international levels.

Who Should Apply?

We welcome applications from a diverse and dynamic pool of participants, including:

- Government officials working in the ministries of finance, environment, climate change, planning, and foreign affairs
- Civil society actors engaging on climate justice, debt, governance, and sustainable development
- Academics and researchers in law, political economy, public policy, environmental studies, and related fields
- Media professionals focused on development finance, climate change, or economic justice reporting
- Young professionals and emerging leaders passionate about advancing Africa's agency in global governance

What Will You Gain?

- An in-depth understanding of climate finance architecture, including the role of IFIs, MDBs, critical minerals, debt swaps, carbon markets, and climate funds
- Insights into the intersections of sovereign debt and climate vulnerability in Africa, particularly in the context of a just energy transition.
- Critical tools for policy analysis, legal critique, advocacy, and strategic engagement at multiple governance levels
- Networking opportunities with leading scholars, policymakers, activists, and professionals

How to Apply

Please submit your application via email to afronomicslaw@gmail.com.

Your application should include:

- A short statement of interest (max 300 words)
- Your CV or résumé (max 2 pages)
- (Optional) Supporting documents or publications

The deadline for applications is midnight (GMT) on the 15th of June, 2025.

Limited travel and accommodation support will be available for selected participants.

For further inquiries, please contact: afronomicslaw@gmail.com. Follow updates on AfronomicsLaw's platforms:

: Afronomicslaw.org

: twitter

: LinkedIn

: Facebook

